Sociology at UASVM Cluj-Napoca

Mihai CUCERZAN

Faculty of Horticulture, University of Agricultural Sciences and Veterinary Medicine,
3-5 Manastur Street, Cluj-Napoca, 400372, Cluj, Romania; cvmihai@yahoo.com

SUMMARY

It is an axiom in psychology, pedagogy and sociology, that human education design includes professional training and humanistic, cultural and moral studies as well. Formation of human personality is not done spontaneously or as a professional component derivation or implication, but in a qualified activity, the socio-human. The study of sociology at the University of Agricultural Sciences and Veterinary Medicine Cluj-Napoca can be classified into three periods. The first period, the wars, it has the spotlight on Mihai Serban (1887-1947). Personality outstanding in Cluj, Romanian high official of the state, with both economic and agronomic studies, Serban has been a vigorous campaigner for Cluj agronomic education and national development, both in his capacity as rector and dignitary. His main contributions are represented by the lifting of Romania agronomic education at university level education system. He has been an advocate of interdisciplinary, arguing for more study combining science whose object of study areas - economics, agronomy and sociology. He pleaded for agronomic development of social science based on the idea that agriculture is not an end in itself but a means for lifting material and cultural empowerment of the population. The second period, after war, noted the work of Maria Olah, who coordinated a course in rural sociology. Also in this period were undertaken and some sociological research field among which a study of productive forces in agriculture Cluj county. Lately, that post-revolutionary (from 1990 until present), Professor Eugen S. Cucerzan recorded activity and the undersigned. In the specialization "Engineering and management in public nourishment and agritourism" and "Economic engineering in agriculture" general sociology courses and rural sociology are binding (in other specialties are optional or voluntary) were written numerous works license with data sociological research methods in sociology are frequently used at both the license (through concrete research during the semester and during sociological practice) and in the thesis. The sociology course aims to familiarize students with basic issues of sociology and the specific methodology of this discipline. Besides teaching and scientific disciplines of sociology owners have made several major sociological studies, which were so different realities of both rural Romanian ( socio-economic development in rural Northwestern Romanian Region, case studies in areas Tureni, Rohia, Floresti, Feleacu, the sociological profile of those who have worked abroad - in the rural county of Salaj and internal problems of the university – the profile of candidates, teachers and students view the document concerning the conduct of university education and business studies and scientific contributions of predecessors of sociology in Cluj - Mihai Serban, George Em. Marica and others.

Keywords: sociology, economics, interdisciplinarity, USAMV Cluj